Section#3-Comparison Table

Comparison Table

Criteria	LLM #1 (Meta AI)	LLM #2 (ChatGPT)
Structure	Well-organized with complete sections (summary, skills, experience, education)	Simple structure with basic sections only
Clarity	Detailed and informative but slightly complex	Clear, simple, and easy to understand
Formatting	Professional and job-ready but slightly dense	Clean and neat but too minimal
Overall Quality	High-quality and detailed, suitable for real job use	Good but too basic and needs improvement

Section#4 REFLECTION

In this activity, LLM #1 (Meta AI) performed better compared to LLM #2 (ChatGPT) because it generated a more detailed and structured resume. It included complete sections such as professional summary, core skills, experience, education, and achievements, which made the output more professional and closer to an actual job application format. It also provided more specific descriptions of responsibilities and skills, which helped strengthen the overall content. However, it had some limitations such as placeholders and slightly complex wording that needed editing. On the other hand, LLM #2 produced a simpler and cleaner resume that was easy to read and understand, but it lacked depth, detail, and strong professional presentation, making it more suitable as a basic draft only.

In my final resume, I combined the best elements of both outputs. I used the strong structure and detailed content from Meta AI while adopting the clarity and simplicity of ChatGPT. I also removed placeholders, improved sentence flow, and ensured that everything was properly formatted into a one-page professional resume. From this activity, I learned that prompting is very important because a clear and complete prompt leads to better AI results. I also realized that AI outputs are not final products and must be refined by the user to improve accuracy, clarity, and overall quality before submission.
